

Midland Wire Cordage highly commended at the Lord Stafford Awards

The Lord Stafford Awards were presented at a dinner held at Worcester Cathedral on 13th November 2008 where a short video presentation was shown to illustrate the widely diverse areas of development carried out by each of the finalists.

Although we did not win in our category, our development project was rated "highly commended" and we are proud to have participated in these prestigious Awards.

Dr John Brammer(Aston University), Dr Nazar Abdelkarim, Mark Ormiston M.D. and John Rogers at the Awards ceremony

This was the 11th year that the Lord Stafford Awards have been held. These awards seek to encourage collaboration and partnership between universities and businesses in the West Midlands region of England, the heartland of the country's engineering heritage.

The Awards are a chance to be recognised as one of the region's innovators. By bringing together the wealth of excellent research and development work produced by universities and diverse business enterprises, the awards seek to generate increased competitiveness and knowledge transfer.

The Lord Stafford Awards support growth and economic prosperity for the region and aim to encourage all businesses and universities to participate in collaborative activity and to embrace innovation.